Re Albany airtel dated 5/22/70

Your communication indicated that [redacted]
[redacted] of Daniel Berrigan, is to be married on 6/6/70 to [redacted] Fort Bliss, Texas.

Previous investigation indicates that this wedding will probably take place in the Syracuse, New York, area and will be attended by the Berrigan family.

In view of the possibility that Daniel Berrigan may appear to officiate at the ceremony or attend the reception, you should discreetly arrange for coverage of this wedding. In the event Berrigan does appear at the wedding you should attempt to apprehend him upon leaving the church and insure that you cover all possible escape routes. In addition, you should consider developing a source for coverage of the subject's mother, Mrs. Frida Berrigan, residing at the Loretto Rest East Glen, and Brighton, Syracuse, New York, since investigation indicates subject's mother has received information concerning the subject's whereabouts.

Reverend Daniel Berrigan;

Attached herewith is a Saint Gregory the Great Church bulletin, dated May 10, 1970. It should be noted that it was in the rectory of this church that Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Agents apprehended fugitives Reverend Philip Francis Berrigan and [redacted] on April 21, 1970.

N.Y. In part, this bulletin contains An Open Pastoral Letter to the Attorney General of the United States from a Father Henry Browne, Sr. Assoc. Pastor. This letter suggests that the FBI Agents used on "your ego-injured conspiracy case could be better employed on Swiss bank account cases and big business thieving.

Involvement - Solent

Dear Sir:

You will notice that the enclosed check does not include the tax surcharge shown on line 9 of Schedule T (Form 1040).

Believing as we do in the American system of income taxation, and fully aware of the benefits such taxation provides, we have always willingly paid what we owed. We have paid also because it is the law to do so, and we believe in the rule of the law, allowing no individual to disobey it out of whim. But this year we are painfully persuaded that it would be against the law to pay this surcharge, because it has been imposed to prosecute a war which is itself illegal.

The Vietnam war violates the law of the United States, for it is a war that Congress, in whom the Constitution vests responsibility, has not declared. (we follow here the recent position taken by the state legislature of Massachusetts). Further, this war violates moral law in that excessively destructive means of warfare have brought harm or death to many innocent civilians and ruin to the land. No end could possibly justify the means that are being used.

Since we cannot possibly give this money in support of an illegal war, we have decided to do something else with it. We will send the sum of our surcharge to St. Gregory's Parish at 144 West 90th Street, New York City. This parish is well known for its vigorous fight against many of the problems afflicting the community, such as inadequate housing, unemployment, and drug addiction. If you will permit us to pay the surcharge in this way-- that is, if you will not collect it from us, we will not claim this sum as a deductible contribution on next year's income tax return.

Mr and Mrs. Charles Burkhart

Fr. Browne
St. Gregory's Parish

Dear Fr. Browne

While we do not wish to do our alms before men to be seen of them, we hope that you may wish to mention what we have done in the parish bulletin. We could simply refuse to pay the surcharge and force the government to collect the sum from us. But such a gesture, while it may comfort the gesturer, is too private to make the point that needs to be made. None of us seeks simply to inconvenience the government, but rather to announce in as many ways as we can that we are profoundly opposed to the war.

Thus, we are giving the money to St. Gregory's, not only because the parish will use it to help people we would like our taxes to help, but also because its bulletin could give our deed at least some publicity, and publicity gives that much more meaning to what we do. We are not claiming that what we do is unusual. There are thousands who make this kind of protest. We think all of us should be making it as noisily as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burkhart

AN OPEN PASTORAL LETTER TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Please believe me, no one here at St. Gregory's knows the whereabouts of our beloved brother, Father Daniel Berrigan, and we are not impressed or overly frightened by the harassment from your trench-coated junior accountants.

Might I suggest that the hundred FBI agents who surrounded our Church on the evening of April 21 and whatever number is still engaged on your ego-injured "conspiracy" case would be better employed (even for the sake of their morale) on Swiss Bank account cases, on the thieving of big business, and on the really destructive conspiracy which allows heroin to flood our city.

Yours in the law of love,

Father Henry Browne
Sr. Assoc. Pastor

Merciful God, deliver us from being so up tight with the few who wear long hair and beads that we never give a thought to the multitudes who go hungry. Deliver us from being so worried that children might hear four-lettered words that we are unconcerned that they hear every day violent words of our civil leaders, close, murder, criminals. Fill us,

By communication dated 6/4/70, the Baltimore Office advised as follows:

Associated Press release dated [redacted] New York, 6/3/70, on 6/4/70 appeared in the Baltimore Sun newspaper. The article reflects "The Rev. DANIEL BERRIGAN (S.J.), the fugitive priest, has surfaced again for a television interview... The article quoted NBC as stating 'BERRIGAN was interviewed last Friday in a motel room outside New York City.' The interview will be broadcast tomorrow (6/4) at 6:00 p.m." BERRIGAN reportedly made other comments concerning the war in Vietnam.

By communication dated 6/4/70 the New York Division furnished the following information [redacted] response to Baltimore's teletype that date.

Contact with news department, NBC, reflects BERRIGAN was interviewed by NBC reporters in a motel in Stamford, Connecticut, on 5/29/70. Interview lasted 16 minutes.

NBC news advised that an unknown party was a go-between between BERRIGAN and NBC. This third party met NBC reporters at a specified site in Connecticut where reporters entered his vehicle. This third party then drove around for 45 minutes to insure that he was not being followed. Unknown party drove reporters to a motel where a reservation had been made by the third party in the name of an NBC reporter. Shortly thereafter BERRIGAN joined the party where he was interviewed.

NBC at present will not furnish the names of the interviewing reporters or the name and location of the motel.

New York is presently endeavoring to obtain this information from the legal department of NBC.

New York advised that that division is vigorously pressing to obtain the names of the reporters and the motel involved so that these individuals can be interviewed regarding the third party and the vehicle he used.

The New York Office advised in addition that they will tape the recorded interview with BERRIGAN and obtain photographs in order to update, if necessary, the photograph of BERRIGAN.

Security informant coverage in the Baltimore Division is continuing on a daily basis. The informants involved are reporting directly to the respective case Agent; however, contact with these informants to date has resulted in the determination that there has been

AT BALTIMORE, MARYLAND

The following investigation was conducted by SA [] and SA [] at Woodstock, Maryland, on April 27, 1970:

Father JOHN COLL, S.J., Assistant to the Superior, Woodstock College (WC), Woodstock, Maryland, furnished the following information:

[] was last seen at the WC on April 24, 1970. Contacts with [] dormitory mates on April 27, 1970, by Father COLL resulted in the determination that [] was not observed at WC during the weekend of April 25 and 26, 1970. It appears [] must have some "arrangement" with Father LAWRENCE MADDEN, S. J., WC Superior, or with New York City Provincial, Father ROBERT MITCHELL, S. J., as he [] has been granted permission to utilize his personal automobile for travel between New York City, Baltimore, and apparently numerous other locations as [] travel consists of coming and going as he pleases and apparently answering to no one other than Fathers MADDEN or MITCHELL.

Records at WC reflect that [] is not currently registered for courses and during the previous semester was enrolled in only one course which he did not complete. In spite of his lack of academic participation, [] is still considered to be a seminarian and member of the Jesuit family. WC regulations require that students report absences and travel to the switchboard or porter; however, enforcement of this rule is non-existent in view of a lax attitude by the Rector and other Jesuit officials located in New York City. WC records do not reflect [] current whereabouts according to Father COLL. If visiting various Jesuit facilities in New York City, [] would probably seek housing in one of four provincial houses in that area or may seek independent assistance from fellow militant Jesuits.

Although he (COLL) considers [] to be an activist, he could not "in good conscience" report [] return to WC in view of their "brotherly" relationship. [] has not withdrawn from WC nor has his dean, Father ROBERT E. O'BRIEN, S.J., New York City, granted him a leave of absence.

Father COLL hesitated to furnish the identity of [] superiors stating that in view of the pending move of WC to the New York City area, matters concerning personnel are handled in that area. However, he said that the New York City Vice-Provincial, Father THOMAS V. BIRMINGHAM, may be aware of [] current whereabouts.

Father LAWRENCE MADDEN, S.J., Superior, WC, advised that [] is not presently located at WC and not expected to return during the current week. He said that Jesuit custom provides for the area Provincial to designate the priestly formation of a Jesuit. There are two means to accomplish this objective:

1. The Provincial through direct teaching or outside assignments and reading can designate an individual as a Jesuit or

2. The Jesuit-elect may be designated to attend any Jesuit seminary from whence he shall be ordained.

Father MADDEN further advised that ordination is not contingent upon graduation from a seminary and that the Provincial has the authority to grant this ordination. Father MADDEN stated that Father ROBERT MITCHELL is responsible for [] priestly formation and [] "is seeing Father MITCHELL regularly."

The Albany Office advised that Freda Berrigan, mother of Daniel Berrigan, was undergoing surgery for a hip fracture at St. Joseph's Hospital, Syracuse, New York, 5/29/70. Mrs. Berrigan is an elderly woman whose physical condition was complicated by a heart ailment and there was some question if she could survive the operation. Daniel Berrigan, a Bureau fugitive, is known to be very close to his mother and reportedly has been in touch with her since he has been sought. In view of the strong possibility that Daniel Berrigan would come to the hospital to see his mother, Albany requested and was granted authority to afford twenty-four hour coverage of the hospital in the event he showed up, necessitating the Agents to perform work on a holiday and weekend with holiday pay.

This case concerns a group known as "Catonsville 9" who were responsible for the destruction of selective service records at Catonsville, Maryland, on 5/17/68. Daniel Berrigan was one of five subjects who failed to appear on 4/9/70, at Baltimore, Maryland, to begin serving prison sentences for his conviction in this matter. Three of these five subjects have been apprehended by Bureau Agents and investigation is being vigorously pursued to apprehend the remaining two subjects.

ACTION:

The Albany Office is continuing to maintain close coverage of Mrs. Freda Berrigan in order to effect subject's apprehension.

Reverend Daniel Berrigan

Announcer:

(Unintelligible) who has been since April 9th on the run from Federal authorities, is a conversation with a fugitive priest. Daniel Berrigan, a fugitive from a three-year jail sentence, talks about the war movement. Daniel Berrigan is a 48 year-old Jesuit priest, fugitive from the law because of his anti-war activities. Recently, he surfaced for an interview with NBC newsman Edward Newman.

Edward Newman:

In May, 1968, two Jesuit priests, Daniel and Philip Berrigan, and seven associates set fire to draft records in the community of Kingsville, Maryland, near Baltimore. They were arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to prison. There were appeals to higher courts, all of which failed. Finally they were due to surrender, that April 9th. Five of the original group, including the Berrigans, went underground. Philip Berrigan was seized by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) at St. Gregory's Catholic Church on Manhattan's West Side on April 21. Daniel Berrigan remains a fugitive. I interviewed him recently after elaborate precautions were insisted on by his representatives.

Father Berrigan, you have been on the run for about two months. What is it like and how do you manage?

Daniel Berrigan:

Well, as the Beatles say - I get along with the help of my friends. I would say that in the beginning it was a little bit dislodged, arrangements had to be made very quickly. I've changed my domicile many times. I had to create things as I went along. What amazes me is that people seem to be waiting for something like this. There's a lot of energy, a lot of love and a lot of political action. Now how that is, sort of desperately searching for some real action, some kind of symbol even. Actually it's been pretty good.

Reverend Daniel Berrigan

Edward Newman

Many people?

Daniel Berrigan:

Well, I've been reaching people in many ways. I've been writing constantly; I've been meeting with small groups; I've been making tapes, and I've been meeting you know, face to face, with professional people, students.

My plan is certainly to be above ground. In order to communicate, I think this is very, very important. I'm not trying to save my skin or to avoid jail. I'm trying to invite the movement to another state of things, another level of things, based upon Mr. Nixon's insistence on bringing the war on another stage of things. So I think that it's very important that a certain reasonable risk be a part of all this.

Edward Newman:

You say that the movement, talking about the war movement, the anti-Vietnam movement, or did you have something larger in mind?

Daniel Berrigan:

Well, I think that the realization is growing all the time that the war is a very vicious system of something that is much deeper that underlines the use of political power and the mentality (unintelligible) that is presently in very high positions in the country and it's crystalized the anti-war movement, but at present I think it is a very deep attempt to get at the roots of the (unintelligible) racism internationalism.

Edward Newman:

How would you define breaking the law in the first place? Does it have encouragement to other people to break the law? And how can you decide which laws are proper to break?

Daniel Berrigan:

Well, I think there is several questions there. Obviously, we were trying to get good people to break the laws, to break evil laws. I would say, time-wise, I began breaking laws long after President Johnson did. I was a little retarded in that area. I still have not broken a law in the sense that I have not harmed a single human being. I think that's a very important point, whereas those in power have broken laws that have brought many innocent people to death, and that's the difference between them and myself.

Very clearly, we are hoping that a movement of non-violent resistance will grow, that is to say that good people will see that goodness depends upon breaking laws today in order to save human life. So I am for that. I don't mind saying it publicly.

How does one distinguish what laws to break, that is to say one uses his head and his heart and community and then comes to these decisions together.

Edward Newman:

But the argument is fairly familiar Father Berrigan. Martin Luther King used to say for example it would be all right to break a law that you would consider to be unjust, but then suffer the consequences of doing so. You have accepted the consequences, at least the consequences specified by the court and by the law (unintelligible)

Daniel Berrigan:

Well, I could put it this way. Martin Luther King, as well as Ghandi, from whom a great deal of this came, were operating under situations where it was quite possible to get recourse in higher courts or in national courts. King always say with good conscience when he was locked up by some red-necked Southern Sheriff that at least the Supreme Court and the President seemed to be on his side, and that the country seemed to be at that time moving towards some decency, some change.

Reverend Daniel Berrigan

But the question for us is to whom do we have recourse? Where do we go? There is no machinery in recourse within our wall about the White House. Otherwise the President of the United States would be trouble.

Edward Newman:

You say, Father Berrigan, that you want to be contemporary and christian?

Daniel Berrigan:

Yep!

Edward Newman:

What's the definition of that?

Daniel Berrigan:

Well, it's a little bit difficult to define all that. You know I could say that this is sort of a new way of trying to take a look at. It seems to me that we have to involve one's beliefs these days by saying no to the power of death. That's as simple as that you know. I'm saying it from the underground and other ways and I think the important thing is to say it in a way that's visible and that doesn't mean saying it from a White House Sunday morning service or from the ordinary pulpit. It means to say something that puts your life in jeopardy.

Edward Newman:

The question seems to me inescapable in what you are doing. What is your view of what the situation would be in the United States if there was widespread defiance of the law?

Daniel Berrigan:

Well, if there were widespread defiance of the kind of law that we've been defiant of, the war could not go on, and that I think is part of the tragedy from the others of this war. That is to say the point of view of the Vietnamese that the peace movement here is still lacking such basic seriousness. People and personal sacrifice and a personal danger of the things that we and our way of life hold most dear you know.

Reverend Daniel Berrigan

The idea that someone should be on an escalator going somewhere financially, security-wise, job and professional-wise and the rest. The idea that nothing should be disturbed in this pattern of life that has always put out good things on us. You lose a great deal to win wars but we haven't been willing to lose anything to make peace. And I think unless there is some kind of equivalent there, the peace movement is not going to get very far.

A taped interview between Father Daniel Berrigan, NBC commentator, Edwin Newman, was shown on the 6:00 p.m. news report, 6/4/70, on NBC television in New York City. No mention was made of the FBI and the interview consisted mainly of anti-war and antiestablishment comments.

The New York office has determined that this interview was recorded on 5/29/70 in a motel in Stamford, Connecticut. Investigation is currently being conducted to identify the motel where this interview occurred.

Father Berrigan is one of the nine individuals who called themselves the "Catonsville Nine" who, in 5/17/68, removed draft files from a local draft board in Catonsville, Maryland, and burned them. After the U. S. Supreme Court refused to hear the appeal, Father Berrigan was to surrender himself to the U. S. Marshal on 4/9/70 to begin serving his jail sentence as a result of his being convicted for a violation of the Selective Service Act, and destruction of Government property. He has been sought as a fugitive since that time.

In addition to giving consideration to interviewing Edwin Newman to determine the full details concerning the arrangements for this interview, where the interview took place, and to determine whether he might have any information which would assist in our locating Father Berrigan, consideration should also be given to interviewing him relative to his possible involvement in concealment of a Federal fugitive.

ACTION: If approved, attached is a letter directed to the Department requesting that they advise if Edwin Newman should be interviewed along lines set forth above.

SELECTIVE SERVICE ACT

The following is being furnished for your information in connection with the appearance of Daniel Berrigan on NBC television on June 4, 1970, when he was interviewed by Edwin Newman.

The New York office advised that contact with the News Department, NBC, determined that Berrigan was interviewed by NBC reporters in a motel in Stamford, Connecticut, on May 29, 1970. The NBC News Department advised that an unknown party had acted as an intermediary between Berrigan and NBC. This unknown individual met NBC reporters at a specified site in Connecticut where these reporters entered his vehicle and they drove around for approximately 45 minutes to insure that they were not followed. This individual then drove to a motel where a reservation had been made by this individual in the name of an NBC reporter. Daniel Berrigan joined them shortly after at the motel where he was interviewed.

The records of the Stamford Motor Inn, 1029 Main Street, Stamford, Connecticut, contain registration card number 3347 dated May 29, 1970, which indicated that rooms 146 and 147 were rented to, first name unknown Miller, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, New York. This registration indicated Miller listed his firm as NBC News and the vehicle was described as a Chevrolet, license 1N 670, state not indicated. The check-in time was recorded as 1:34 p.m., May 29, 1970. The billing receipt for the Stamford Motor Inn revealed that the bill was paid with Master Charge Card number 170074007114 in the name of John L. Miller. This card also showed the following identifying data KSBA 103301-71. The total bill was $45.

Witnesses at the Stamford Motor Inn advised that six white males arrived in a dark green Chevrolet sedan with a roof antenna on the car. They believed the car had New York license. They advised that the individual who identified himself as Miller handled all the negotiations for the rooms and first requested rooms at the rear of the motel but then agreed to accept rooms located at the front center of the motel.

These witnesses described photographic equipment consisting of cameras, film, and light equipment which was observed being removed from the trunk of this Chevrolet car into the motel rooms. They advised that the rooms were occupied for approximately three hours. Miller was described as a white, male, 40 years old 6'1" tall, 175 pounds, clean shaven and well dressed.

They described the other individuals as being unkempt in appearance and "hippie" types. The individual who conversed with Miller concerning the room accommodations was described as white, male, 6' tall, full head of black hair, wearing full black beard, sport shirt, khaki slacks and sandals.

Investigation at the Union Trust Company, Stamford, Connecticut, revealed that the above-mentioned Master Charge Card was probably issued by the First National City Bank of New York City. It was determined that John L. Miller is with the News Department of NBC News.

Dear Sir,

On Thursday night at 11:20 p.m. on W.N.B.C. T.V. in New York, there was an interview which showed newsman Edwin Neuman interviewing Fr. Daniel Berrigan on T. V. That man is a fugitive wanted by the F.B.I. I find it hard to believe that N.B.C. could get away with this escapade. Edwin Neuman, the camera and sound men and the network itself had to know that they were going to aid this man in hiding from justice. I feel that laxity and financial influence have let Edwin Newman and his network crew and N.B.C. Break the law. They should have let the F.B.I. know of this secret set-up and had the man captured.

I demand to know why they get off scott free when a simple man would get locked up for 30 yrs for doing something like that. Do microphones and money control the law.

Sincerely,

By communication dated 6/5/70, the New Haven Division advised as follows concerning their investigation at Stamford, Connecticut:

Records, Stamford Motor Inn, 1029 Main Street, Stamford, Connecticut, contain registration card number 3347, dated 5/29/70, which reveals that rooms 146 and 147 rented to (FNU) MILLER, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, New York. Firm listed as NBC News, and vehicle listed as Chevrolet, license number 1N670 or IN670, state not indicated. Check-in time recorded as 1:34 p.m., 5/29/70. Copies of billing receipt maintained by Stamford Motor Inn indicates bill paid with Master charge card number 170074007 114 in the name L. MILLER. Master Charge card contained the following identifying data: ESBA 103301-71. Total of bill was $45. Witnesses at Stamford Motor Inn stated that six white males arrived in a Chevrolet sedan described as dark green with antenna in center of roof probably used for radio or telephone equipment in car. Vehicle probably bearing New York plates. Individual who identified himself as MILLER handled all negotiations for the rooms and requested two adjoining rooms located at the rear and extreme end of the motor inn. After being advised that these rooms were not available, MILLER had extensive conversation with a bearded occupant of the car and agreed to accept rooms located in the front center of the motel. Photographic equipment consisting of cameras, film and light equipment observed being unloaded from the trunk of the car and into the rooms. Rooms occupied approximately three hours. MILLER described as white male, 40 years of age, 6'1", 175 lbs., clean shaven, well dressed. Five other occupants presented unkempt appearance and described as "hippie" types.

Individual who conversed with MILLER concerning rooms described as about 6', wearing full black beard, full head of black hair, sport shirt, khaki slacks and sandals. Appropriate directories for lower Fairfield County, Connecticut, contain no listing for JOHN L. MILLER. Investigation Union Trust Company, Stamford, Connecticut, reveal above-mentioned Master Charge card not issued by that bank and probably issued by First National City Bank, New York City.

Also try to determine if he has any personal vehicle and if so, place appropriate stops. Consider developing a source who may be in a position to furnish information relating to [REDACTED] subject's [REDACTED] who was known to be close to the subject and reportedly received information concerning his whereabouts on 5/7/70. In pursuing this investigation, offices should not rely only upon informants or sources to develop information but should use these sources together with other investigative efforts to develop positive information concerning whereabouts of subjects. You should continue to keep the Bureau advised of all pertinent developments.

By communication dated 6/16/70, WFO advised follows:

A priest at Catholic University of America (CU), Washington, D. C., who wished to remain anonymous, telephonically contacted WFO on 6/16/70 and advised that Father DANIEL BERRIGAN was scheduled to speak at CU at 9:30 a.m. on 6/17/70.

Discreet investigation at CU this date has determined BERRIGAN is scheduled to speak from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m. in the Moot Court Room at the CU Law School. His topic is "The voice of the oppressed from the first and third world." His talk is part of a Summer Philosophy Conference being held 6/14-19/70 in law school spaces by the CU Philosophy Department. Rev. ERNEST W. RANLEY, visiting associate professor of philosophy, who is the conference director, advised he made the arrangements for BERRIGAN to speak prior to Christmas, 1970. If unable to attend, BERRIGAN agreed to furnish a thesis in lieu of his presence, apparently thinking that he might be in jail at the time. RANLEY further advised BERRIGAN has not been heard from since this initial arrangement was made. BERRIGAN has not answered his mail which has been sent to his Cornell University address in Ithaca, New York, and furthermore no thesis has been received to date. RANLEY fully expects BERRIGAN will not put in an appearance tomorrow and has already altered his program for the day in expectation thereof.

Investigation at Baltimore in connection with attempts to locate [redacted] had consisted of making daily spot surveillance conducted during the week of 6/15-19/70 in the areas of Baltimore formerly frequented by [redacted] which include [redacted] residence and that of [redacted] located at [redacted]

The Priest Who Stayed Out in the Cold

By PHILIP NOBILE

DAN BERRIGAN—Jesuit priest, prize-winning poet and napalmer of draft files—is on the lam. He was convicted with eight other Christian resisters, including his priest-brother Philip Berrigan, for destroying Selective Service records, snatched two years ago from Local Board 33 at Catonsville, Md. But after the Supreme Court refused to review the case, he failed to surrender himself for imprisonment on April 9.

Berrigan went underground. Instead, promising to surface a few days later at Cornell, his home ground since 1967. The occasion for the campus apparition was a peace weekend entitled "America Is Hard to Find," which was prearranged to celebrate Berrigan's departure for prison.

Movement people and the F.B.I. suspected this bizarre turn was just one last fading act of protest, that Berrigan wanted to exit the way he came in—with a bang not a whimper. They were wrong. The holdout showed at the appointed time, gave a brief exhortation to a friendly crowd of 10,000 assembled in the Cornell gym, and then slipped away when the lights went out. Since that appearance, Berrigan himself has been hard to find.

Three other members of the Catonsville Nine also broke bond and disappeared. As of this writing, Mary Moylan, a young nurse with missionary service in Africa, is still at large. George Mische, a former Alliance for Progress employe in Central America, evaded lawmen until late May, when he was picked up in Chicago. rious Baltimore Four case) was captured in Manhattan on April 21, when the F.B.I. rushed St. Gregory the Great's parish rectory on the Upper West Side and found the fugitive hiding in the pastor's closet. Although Philip Berrigan and David Eberhardt had publicly announced they would attend a paralyzing service at St. Gregory's that same evening, the F.B.I. got their men in a surprise afternoon raid. An embarrassing Camel-type escape was apparently not to be risked again.

The unexpected drop-out of four members of the Catonsville Nine marks a further escalation in resistance despair. The Movement once welcomed the sacrificial offerings of willing victims like the Berrigans. From ritual burnings and baptisms of blood would arise new metaphors to symbolize the war and perhaps the beginnings of a new consciousness to stop it. Thus the ultraresistance, largely Catholic, largely clergy and largely masterminded by Philip Berrigan, took the offensive with a series of hit-and-stay guerrilla actions:

The Baltimore Four (October, 1967)

—Philip Berrigan, Eberhardt, painter Tom Lewis and Protestant minister James Mengel splatter 600 draft records with a mixture of their own and animal blood.

The Catonsville Nine (May, 1968)

—Berrigan and Lewis strike again, this time joined by Dan Berrigan and six others; 378 draft files are barbecued with homemade napalm.

The Milwaukee 14 (September, 1968)—James Forest, co-chairman with Philip Berrigan of the Catholic Peace Fellowship, six Catholic priests and other assorted activists do in 10,000 draft records with their own napalm recipe.

The D.C. Nine (March, 1969)—Nuns, priests and lay people ransack Dow Chemical offices in Washington, scattering papers to the winds and bloodying up the files.

The Chicago 15 (May, 1969)—More Catholics, more napalm; 40,000 draft records up in smoke.

The scenario was always the same: a swift seizure of Selective Service or defense property succeeded by fireside prayers and songs until the law arrived. Nobody tried to quit the scene of the crime. Otherwise there could be no tribunals, no jail sentences, no witness. So far, even the trials at Baltimore, Catonsville, Milwaukee, Washington and Chicago seem to have followed a common script. Irresistible moral arguments were defeated every time by immovable legal principles which declared the war and conscience inadmissible evidence.

As Judge Roszel Thomsen charged the jurors at the close of the Catonsville Nine defense: "The law does not recognize political, religious convictions, or some higher law justification for the commission of crime, no matter how good the motive may be . . . If you find that defendants under consideration tended to remove, destroy, attempted to do so, these records filed or deposited in the office then it is no defense that he or she also had one or more other intentions, reasons, purposes, or motives, such as to make an outcry or a protest against the Vietnam war . . ."

The verdict, of course, was guilt.

In each of the five cases. Despite the courtroom restrictions, however, the trials were considered limited victories by the resistance, for the Movement was rallied, the churches were challenged, and the war became a somewhat less credible venture. "I would like to thank the court and the prosecution," said Dan Berrigan immediately after the Catonsville Nine were pronounced guilty. "I think we agree that this was the greatest day of our lives."

DAN BERRIGAN obviously does not see that way now. What happened to the euphoria of two years ago? Why do he and his friends change their minds about jail — their own moral equivalent to war? Berrigan explained his present state of mind in an open letter to the Jesuits published in The National Catholic Reporter.

"Two years after Catonsville, the arguments we proposed against the slaughter go unheeded," he wrote on the day of his exile. "Our Movement widens the swath of death in Southeast Asia. Indeed, as the trial of our brothers and sisters in Washington, and the pretrial orders of the judge of the Chicago 15 both declare, the courts have stopped their ears against our cry for justice and peace. It is now officially forbidden under threat of heavy penalty to initiate public debate on the issues which our acts have striven to raise. We are gagged in public and in the courts. And a war, undeclared and in despite of every humane and constitutional law, goes on like a runaway nightmare."

"In the face of such events," he continued, "the courts have become more and more the instruments of the war-makers. Can Christians, therefore, unthinkingly submit before such powers? We judge not. The powers and dominations remain subject to Christ; our consciences are in his keeping and no other. To act as though we were criminals before God or humanity, to cease resisting a war which has immeasurably widened, since we first acted, to retire meekly to silence and isolation — this seems to Philip and me a betrayal of our ministry."

The Catonsville Nine bug-out raises the resistance stakes in a new way. Apart from draft-dodging, desertion, petty vandalism and the mad bombing by the Weathermen, whose whose ways with us... for, a... reasonable... men... is forming... no longer... accept... the... notion... that crime... involves... punishment... Boston University... professor... Howard Zinn... defended... rationale... in... "Disobedience and Democracy," in which he wrote: "The sportsmanlike acceptance of jail as the terminus of civil disobedience is fine for a society determined to limit reform to tokens. It does not suit a society which wants to eliminate long-festering wrongs." Zinn's message, appropriated long ago by the Movement's hardcore, caught up with Dan Berrigan only in the last days of the appeal period. It was Berrigan who then posed the possibility of staying out to the rest of the Catonsville Nine. Four of the Chicago 15 followed suit by failing to appear for their May 5 trial date; three more disappeared during the proceedings. And it remains to be seen whether the recently sentenced D.C. Nine go all the way to prison.

I TALKED to Dan Berrigan in early May. We rendezvoused two consecutive nights at a professor's home somewhere along the Bowwash (Boston-Washington) corridor. The courier—a well-known Movement personality, much to my amazement—zigzagged through deserted suburban streets shaking off an imaginary posse en route to the first meeting. As one Berrigan confidant, privy to the underground arrangements, said to another after the incident at St. Gregory's, "You can relax. No more nuns or Keystone Cops. Dan's in the hands of professionals." Well, just to say, semi-professionals.

Berrigan was babysitting for the children of the house when I arrived. A conversation on radical school reform faded as he lifted up the stairs and I repaired the equalizer of the library for a two of revolutionary consciousness.

Already a month into his self-exile at the time, Berrigan, 49, seemed to be in good shape. The depression after brother Phil's capture had long since passed. Accustomed to living on his recently acquired stomach, Berrigan was getting by with a little help from his friends. The Zapata mustache and Ho Chi Minh goatee are off, all the better to disguise his aging elfin face. Berrigan looked comfortable and at peace as he sat back cradling a glass of brandy and told how he decided to go into the cold.

"I spoke with Cornell friends first about staying out [of jail] for 'America Is Hard to Find,' April 17 to 19, because there were inklings we would have to turn ourselves in just before the event. Next, I proposed to the Catonsville group that we have an open discussion on whether to appear that day. The suggestion to go underground was greeted sympathetically. The breakdown was obvious. The Melvilles and Tom Lewis wanted to get it over with—the married and the just married. Mische wasn't there. The rest of us chose to postpone surrender for a while.

"At this point, I didn't think I'd be out beyond the Cornell thing. Then when I was actually hiding out prior to the festival, I reread Zinn's 'Disobedience and Democracy' and listened to the advice of my resister friends. I made up my mind during those days on an extended leave of absence. In general, I'm trying to connect with a community of consciousness rather than with the Government as grand inquisitor. I'm also attempting to respond to political realities. It is less and less realistic now to enter court and the whole jail scene. Thank God we've come upon something—temporary immunity and deliberate visibility."

Although Berrigan is not obsessed with avoiding an appointment with the F.B.I., the effectiveness of his underground mission obviously depends on keeping ahead of the opposition. "It has become clear after Phil's arrest," Berrigan said, "that this business of much more than just watching figures and want out. Berrigan was to drop in May Black Yale. "That the end of shuddered. can expect trails." Being idea."

The modus vivendi involves a lot of travel, limited contacts with friends, no phone calls out or in, and no visitors at his mobile headquarters. A single liaison man, the only person who knew Berrigan's exact whereabouts, handled most of the outside work when I was in town. If you wanted to see him, you had to go through the Guarded access. He was not mean, limited access. Rather, Berrigan is constantly meeting with the resistance population. To paraphrase a new Chinese saying: Berrigan swims in the underground like a fish in the sea.

What is Dan Berrigan up to? He and the others are trying to help people.

professors, which is why—avoid a trap. They are trying to find new ways to put themselves in political jeopardy. I am trying to help them undergo moral change and moral events, which will require severe losses and immense sacrifices. The whole ethos of this campaign is not to save my skin but to test a new political level of existence. I say to these people, Here I am, and what are you going to do about it? I invite them into forms of jeopardy parallel to Catonsville. There is very little you can do now within the law. Nixon can control that and show contempt for it. I would hope new actions outside the law will create larger and larger communities dedicated to large nonviolent resistance. We simply must offer alternatives to the slavery and killing done in our name."

Berrigan is asking for more than business-as-usual civil disobedience. "Before Catonsville," he insisted, "it was important to consider breaking human law for the sake of peace and decency. Now we are saying it is important deliberately to reject punishment for this lawbreaking. After the commission of a certain crime, he would have the accused make full use of the bond period for propaganda and then disappear before the trial into a resister community. "We reject the automatic continuum between crime and punishment, that a good man to prove he is a good man must accept his punishment. This acquiescence may be politically irresponsible because by capitulating you may strengthen the forces of evil you first confronted in your action."

BERRIGAN is not sure what results his plan will bring forth. "The political effect is unknown and immeasurable. We've never had the middle class undertake political jeopardy in the United States." He is more concerned, however, not with immediate discernible goals like ending the war, but rather with change in consciousness. A trip to Hanoi in 1967, cleaned out of his soul all remaining pockets of optimism which were still holding on to a "Peace Now" panacea. The North Vietnamese told Berrigan they had little confidence in the ability of the American peace movement to stop the war. Their own revolution was already centuries in duration and they did not envision a much faster timetable in the United States.

"What stays with me," he said, "is a new time sense. I believe in the long haul of history, a kind of revolutionary patience. It's not my decision that people die every day in Vietnam. We have not yet reached the stage of building a realistic alternative to Nixon. But we can show preference in the quality of our lives by changing our consciousness. That is the only approach to the North Vietnamese."

Berrigan's revolutionary patience wore a trifle thin during the first interview. There were a few tiresome false starts and forced marches into the same territory before all the nuances were worked out. Sometimes he chewed nervously on a paperclip. For important clarifications he would rise from his chair and slowly pace the study.

Conversation ceased at midnight the hour, Berrigan quipped, when Jesuits turn into pumpkins. Since the protocol of security would not permit me to infiltrate his sanctuary, I was to await a phone call which would disclose the time and place of the next session. No precaution, however, was in evidence as the third man and his secret cargo nonchalantly drove me home in an open car without the too-many-movie zigs and zags I got on the way over.

Interviewing a fugitive the following day. Could I come immediately? The professor would pick me up—forgetting I already knew the way to his house. Berrigan was in better spirits this Sunday evening. After sleeping the sleep of the just the previous night, he rose late, took a walk, transcribed some poems and offered mass in the presence of friends—not an atypical day in the life of this fugitive priest. Thus far on his sabbatical from Federal prison, he has done a prose poem for Saturday Review on Dietrich Bonhoeffer, the German theologian martyred by the Nazis and one of Berrigan's favorite spirits. "Dark Night of Resistance," a revolutionary rendering of John of the Cross's "Dark Night of the Soul," is also in the works. Two political critiques have been published in Commonweal and The Village Voice. This method of writing-on-the-run has begotten 13 books in the 13 years since 1957, when he won the Lamont Prize for a book of poems entitled "Time Without Number." Another volume of poetry, "False Gods, Real Men," was nominated for a National Book Award last year.

The medium of Berrigan's message has not been confined to print. In early June, he was interviewed by Edwin Newman on N.B.C.'s local New York evening news and played back on a tape of his own making by Manhattan's radical radio station, WBAL.

BERRIGAN grabbed a handful of figs as we passed through the living room into the study to resume deliberations. Observing the state of his hunger, the professor's wife inquired whether he would like to eat a meal. No, the figs would do for a while. "I don't mind suffering as long as you know it."

Having dispensed with the preliminaries, we moved on to more substantive questions. How, for instance, would Berrigan explain the current political dishevelment in the Movement? "I relate the disarray of the Movement to a praxis of culture," he said. "Historically, it is inevitable that the Movement be in disarray. Remember, this is the first time a movement in the United States has been seized by an age group under 30. I just don't think we can expect that kind of smooth humanitarian development from young people who are totally alienated and constantly under the fire of the local sheriff.

"In the technological West, it is a new social phenomenon to have the sons of those in power resist that power. We're creating a moral situation out of a history entirely different from the blacks, Cubans, Algerians and Vietnamese. Enslaved consciousness is an utterly new experience for us. So our groping toward revolution is bound to be clumsy.

"It is a false question, then, when liberals say to us, where is your program, what are your alternatives? This pragmatic view is a misunderstanding of the process. It presumes we can know the terminal stage of something before we can undergo it. But we operate in the reverse."

"If Berrigan isn't sure where the Movement will end, he is at least decided on where to begin. "It seems to me to live in jeopardy is the form of the future that is most practical now. The sign of the future lies in separating ourselves from public violence, consumerism, security and all those dependencies which keep the present permanent. Of course, part of the blindness of the present," he adds, "is the inability to see signs of the future."

As a pacifist, Berrigan is disturbed by the violent machismo posture of the radical Left. He will go as far as strategic sabotage, a much discussed topic in the Movement nowadays, but will not enter on the paths of death. "The ratio of despair and violence in the Movement," he contends, "is in direct proportion to the absence of growth in spirit. For you must realize we are in a profound adventure of the spirit and the precipitate growth of young people can only be hurtful in the end. I relate the madness on our side to a want of wisdom and gurus. All violent rhythms must be dealt with and it is precisely older people, especially the gurus, who can provide another kind of landmark for the young."

BERRIGAN also has some notions on reforming the nuclear family whose present constitution is not a natural habitat for resistance. For example, what is the professional teacher, writer, scientist or social worker to do about his family when he jumps into political jeopardy after the commission of a crime? He risks jail if caught or a runaway existence if he disappears into the underground—the preferable option according to Berrigan. Assuming the would-be criminal is willing to forgo career and money for his political conviction, there is still great tation about upsetting the marital relationship and leaving one's children in a fatherless void.

Berrigan envisions resistance communes as a possible solution. These communes would provide not only underground shelter, but also nesting ground for a new family arrangement. The presence of several common fathers and mothers would free particular fathers and mothers for short and, if necessary, long-term expeditions for the Movement.

Hard sayings? "It is a harder saying," replied Berrigan, "that young resisters must resign themselves to politically neutral marriages. If life should move in the direction of freedom, then marriage ought to be a vehicle of freedom, not an impasse."

Separation of husband and wife can also be therapeutic. "The Christian view of marriage as an experience in fidelity has political relevance. For the couple, even in periods of desolation, know that they are entering a dark night."

"The death and loneliness of war," he continued, "makes enormous demands on the family. We have tended to think the Movement could get along with less. Well, it cannot."

The fight had worn off by now. Berrigan stopped talking and fled to the kitchen for a midnight collation of cheese and salami.

WHAT is a nice Jesuit priest doing in a predicament like this? There is nothing in Daniel Berrigan's Irish-Catholic breeding that even remotely suggests he would one day lead a life of crime. He grew up in Syracuse under the heavy hand of a wild poet-maque father softened by a patient mother. Shy, sensitive and frail, Berrigan was unlike the rest of his five brothers, especially the outgoing and athletic Philip, two years younger.

Dan Berrigan was precociously devout. He wanted to be a priest from early childhood and in 1939, at the age of 18, he signed up with the Society of Jesus. During the next 13 years of basic Jesuit training, he was drilled in the hardhat school of the pre-Vatican II church.

Theological education began in 1952, ordination in 1955.

Good fortune struck a year in France. Berrigan, elbows with millions of French workers, priests taught him a social-oriented style of Catholicism he never knew before and never let go of afterward. For the remainder of the fifties Berrigan stayed one step ahead of his superiors, who couldn't quite catch up with his troublesome ways. In 1963, his annoying avant-gardism in the liturgy and various social causes earned him another all-expenses-paid trip to France, courtesy of the Jesuits. This time he returned with an additional notch on his soul. What he saw of the "church in chains" in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Russia convinced him that the purest form of Christianity was lived in jeopardy and risk—under the shadow of hostile secular power.

Dan Berrigan's public life in politics coincided with the rise of the peace movement. Although active in civil rights and poverty, he stayed away from big controversy until 1965, when Cardinal Spellman started to lean on him for his antiwar doings, including the founding of Clergy Concerned About Vietnam with Pastor Richard Neuhaus and Rabbi Abraham Heschel. Once again Berrigan was driven from the land, this time on a trumped-up reporting assignment for Jesuit Mission magazine. And once again he re-entered the American atmosphere radicalized by visions of a different world. Traumatized by the poverty south of the U.S. border, he came back fortified for the long struggle for peace in Vietnam. At this point, the hierarchy and the results couldn't afford to touch him. Publicity had made him something of a folk hero.

Berrigan was back in the headlines again in January 1968 when he flew to Hanoi in the company of Howard Zinn on the first mission to bring home American prisoners of war released by the North Vietnamese. But for the most part, he passed the latter days of the peace movement in relative safety—teaching and chaplaining at Cornell. Even after his brother's participation in the Baltimore Four action in October 1967, he did not feel the compulsion to limit Philip. "I was still weak in the idea that in order to be a priest, you must be a saint," he said.

all that was possible or indeed helpful.

In May 1968, Philip, the Miami Casanova and Sundance Kid of the ultra-resistance, visited Dan on the Cornell campus. Out on bail from the Baltimore offense, Philip was getting ready for Catonsville and wanted his brother in on the job. Dan, withstood Philip's famous treatment, which consists of repeated karate chops to the conscience for an entire evening. But he weakened in the later rounds and by dawn he was another number in the Catonsville Nine.

DAN BERRIGAN seemed to change in the aftermath of Catonsville. His Catholic friends noticed a tone of arrogance about him. He complained about receiving insufficient support and showed his disappointment when they did not volunteer to come follow him. Despite occasional lapses, however, Messianism is not a dominant trait in Berrigan's personality. He is fully aware of his "Rasputin effect" and tries to cool his apocalyptic intensity.

Inside the Movement, Berrigan is appreciated for keeping people on their revolutionary toes. "He is always a couple of steps ahead," according to resistance theoretician Noam Chomsky of M.I.T. "But the main thing is the mood he creates. Being with Berrigan places things in proper proportion. People around him move away from their egotism and self-interest. He is one of the long sequence of people who have one steering eye on the future and one steering eye on the present."

Some resisters, certainly a minority, think Berrigan should have gone to jail. Michael Ferber, who was acquitted of conspiracy with Dr. Spock and Sam Sloane Coffin Jr., celebrated Boston Five was personally dismayed by Berrigan's holdout. Although he reserves final judgment at this point, he considers Berrigan more valuable to the Movement in prison — organizing inmates — than on the run. "Dan is fostering a dangerous, the-type image that's falsely founded — that he can survive in the underground. People think he and the Catonsville escapee can be in the Movement."

Even Francine du Plessix Gray, who reports on the Berrigans' odyssey in her recent book, "Divine Disobedience," was faked out by the flight from capture. "I was surprised at first," she admitted. "I couldn't understand it. It is so inconsistent with the classical theory of civil disobedience as performed throughout the Catonsville experience. They are probing a new tactic in civil disobedience by going away from the rationale of the trial. Once more the Berrigans are a step ahead of us and teaching us."

I SAW Dan Berrigan for the last time at a special underground gathering of the faithful. An assortment of Movement types were in attendance — two priests, two Panthers, two ministers, an F.B.I. dropout and his wife, a social worker and a couple of Movement heavies — the sort of assembly he will powwow with as long as the F.B.I. sleeps. To avoid leaks in security, no one was given the reason for the meeting and, once there, no one was allowed to use the phone.

is a brief statement explaining why he is on prison and what he was trying to accomplish outside. "I want to sit with people and share their thoughts," he said in a low, distant voice. "I want to use the ante of seriousness regarding the misuse of power and our own due response." Then he added with more tentativeness than enthusiasm, "I have a good feeling about the whole thing."

This was the week of Cambodia and Kent State and the group was in a state of frustration-agitation. The discussion first turned toward an escalation of civil disobedience. A minister proclaimed now was the time to act. The whole thing was going crazy. He was out tying up major highways with flat tires, breakdowns or clogging up the stock exchange with thousands of one-share transactions? The social worker demurred. He was measuring the seriousness of new actions solely by the needs of the oppressed and he didn't think the blacks and Indians would be impressed. The mild-mannered ex-F.B.I. man pushed for more "respectable" methods of dissent because his liberal neighbors were softening on the war and were ready to throw in with the opposition if they could be sure they wouldn't be embarrassed.

A loud knock on the apartment door momentarily stunned the radical caucus. Berrigan flinched; his face suddenly masked with helpless panic. "Who is it?" asked the host. "It's Pete," replied the voice beyond. "Come back later, will you?" The intruder went away and steady breathing was restored within.

Number One Panther said Berrigan was kidding himself about nonviolence, predicting Berrigan would have to use a gun to protect himself against his pursuers. Berrigan pook-pooked the idea that the F.B.I. would ever shoot at him. But the F.B.I. alumnus across the room replied they very well might if he continued to show them up with flimsy getaways.

The social workshop came back to reassert the greater moral authority of the oppressed. The Movement. Since they suffered the most their relief ought to be figured into every mode of resistance. What was Berrigan doing for them?

"I can't hang around asking black people what to do with my life," Berrigan retorted in the evening's pivotal remarks. It wasn't said arrogantly, but only in defense. For the conversation had so far been a tug-of-war between stepped-up disruption and intimations of anarchy, with Berrigan's where-do-we-go-from-here pacifism torn someplace in the middle. He couldn't go home again to Catonsville and wouldn't go the way of the Panthers.

Number Two Panther, a tall, handsome fellow silent until now, sharpened the dilemma in an extended and articulate exposé of Berrigan's radical middle.

"You reacted toward Vietnam," he said to Berrigan, calmly, forcefully and without bitterness, "but what about the blacks? If a white radical doesn't identify his action with the people at the bottom, then he's just shucking and jiving. You can't deal with violence and viciousness and fascism with morality. There you only have six million people in gas chambers."

Berrigan's response didn't connect. Although he agreed that power doesn't come out of the sleeve of a dashiki, he couldn't bridge singular as they two Panthers on the educational value of killing, cops. "Try working against a white war and war machine," he said plaintively, "and I don't know how the black community relates to that. But the minute we start saying that we're only being men, when we're shooting, I begin to turn off."

After this exchange the discussion went downhill and crashed against the strategic barrier erected by the Panthers. The guest, of honor shook hands with the group and left without a settlement.

So it goes with Father Daniel Berrigan in the underground. He hides, he prays, he seeks, he speaks, he listens. But he hasn't yet put it all together. ■

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date June 9, 19701

Mr. EDWARD CONKLIN, Manager, Stamford Motor Inn, 1209 Main Street, Stamford, Connecticut, advised that the records of this Motor Inn contain a registration card, numbered 33347, which indicates that on May 29, 1970, at 1:34 P.M., an individual named MILLER, first name unknown, rented rooms 146 and 147 of the Stamford Motor Inn.

CONKLIN advised that the registration card shows a check out date of May 30, 1970 although no time is indicated on the card. He explained that if the occupant paid in advance, the room is automatically marked vacant on the following day. He said that the above would be true if the occupant only used the room for a few hours.

He advised that billing records of the Stamford Motor Inn for registration card number 33347 reveal that the bill was paid by Master Charge Card number 17-0074-007-114, in the name JOHN L. MILLER. He said that another identifying number on the charge card was ESBA 103301-70.

He said that the registration card in the name of MILLER listed an address of 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City, New York, and that his firm was NBC News. The vehicle being operated by MILLER was listed as a Chevrolet, license 1N670 or IN670. The state issuing the license plates was not indicated.

CONKLIN advised that he would maintain the original registration card and billing records of the above transaction.

Date June 9, 1970

LEE BATTERSON, Desk Clerk, Stamford Motor Inn, 1209 Main Street, Stamford, Connecticut advised that on May 29, 1970 an individual who identified himself as Mr. MILLER stated he had a reservation for two adjoining rooms at the Motor Inn. When Mr. MILLER was assigned rooms 146 and 147 which are in the front of the Motor Inn, he stated he had requested rooms at the rear and end of the Motor Inn and when informed that there were none available in this location he made approximately three trips outside to the car and conversed with a white bearded male and appeared to be anguishing. Finally, MILLER accepted rooms 146 and 147.

LEE BATTERSON stated that she was suspicious of these people because of their appearance, that is, that the other five males in the car other than Mr. MILLER were dressed as "hippies" and appeared "grubby". Mr. MILLER appeared clean shaven and well dressed. Because of this suspicion she placed them in rooms 146 and 147 which were close to the office rather than at the rear and end of the motel where they could not be observed by the office.

LEE BATTERSON stated she observed a large quantity of photographic equipment removed from the trunk of a dark green Chevrolet used by MILLER and the other individuals and taken into the rooms. According to BATTERSON, a Mr. VICTOR TELESCO, a friend of hers was present at the time and advised her that she should get paid in advance for the rooms. LEE BATTERSON then contacted Mr. MILLER by phone at the room and he came to the office to pay the bill. Mr. MILLER first put down two twenty dollar bills but then asked if a credit card would be alright, when advised that it would, he presented a Master Charge card in the name of JOHN L. MILLER and paid the bill with this charge card.

According to BATTERSON she does not recall ever seeing Mr. MILLER before nor does she ever recall seeing the other five individuals, although she did not get a good look at anyone other than Mr. MILLER.

LEE BATTERSON stated that she departed at four o'clock after her shift and did not see the above mentioned people depart, but Mr. MILLER had stated he only wanted to use the rooms for a few hours.

MILLER further stated that he wanted two adjoining rooms at the rear and far end of the motor inn, and that he would occupy the room for a few hours.

[redacted] advised that the desk clerk, LEE BATTERSON, advised MILLER that he could not have two rooms at the rear and far end of the motor inn as they were not available. MILLER returned to his vehicle, which was still occupied by 5 other men, and had a conversation with one of the occupants. He said that MILLER appeared to be arguing with the occupant of the car, who was bearded and had dark hair.

He stated that after the conversation with the occupant of the car, MILLER returned to the lobby of the motor inn and accepted two rooms in the front of the inn. He then returned to the car, drove to an area in front of the two rooms, and all six occupants exited the car. He said that the trunk of the car was unloaded and a large quantity of photographic equipment, including cameras, film, and lighting equipment, was taken into the rooms.

He said that he became suspicious because of the photographic equipment and told the desk clerk, LEE BATTERSON that she had better collect for the room. He advised that she telephonically contacted MILLER in one of the rooms and requested

He stated that he kept a close watch on the room until sometime between 4:00 and 4:45 P.M., when he left the motor inn. He said that he did not see anyone enter or exit the room between the time they registered and the time he left the motor inn. He did not know when they left the motor inn.

Instant vehicle registered to Religious [] of Mary, Marymount College, Tarrytown, New York.

At approximately 11 a.m. on 7/4/70 MC ALISTER and two unknown companions, together with [] traveled to Loretto Rest Home to visit subject BERRIGAN's mother, Mrs. FREDA BERRIGAN. They returned to the [] residence at approximately 12:15 p.m.

Later in the day, Sister ELIZABETH MC ALISTER and her two traveling companions departed Syracuse, New York, on Route U.S. 81, south. As they traveled through Cortland, New York, they were stopped for speeding by a New York State Trooper. The Trooper had the opportunity to inspect MC ALISTER's vehicle and he advised that subject BERRIGAN was definitely not an occupant therein.

In view of appearance of MC ALISTER and unknown companions at Loretto Rest Home, interview of Mrs. BERRIGAN was conducted at the earliest opportunity. Mrs. BERRIGAN advised that she was just visited by [] and by Sister ELIZABETH MC ALISTER. She said MC ALISTER was accompanied by Mother JOGUES (PH) and by one NED (INU), a former Jesuit priest. Mrs. BERRIGAN was under the impression that Mother JOGUES was MC ALISTER's superior.

AL 25-13200

Mrs. BERRIGAN further advised that DANIEL BERRIGAN's name was not brought up during her conversation with MC ALISTER (upon [redacted] instructions in her opinion). However, MC ALISTER mentioned that she and her companions were very tired because they had been up all night in Rochester and had traveled from Rochester to Syracuse during the early morning hours.

Mrs. BERRIGAN advised that she did not know MC ALISTER, Mother JOGUES and NED personally until their recent visit. However, she said that since her son has been a fugitive, she has received letters of encouragement from MC ALISTER and from Mother JOGUES telling her "not to worry, [redacted] that DAN is being well cared for by his friends."

[redacted] Interview of Mrs. BERRIGAN disclosed no additional pertinent information.

DETAILS:

On June 4, 1970 the Baltimore Office advised that an Associated Press release, dateline New York New York, June 3, 1970, appeared in the Baltimore "Sun" newspaper, concerning fugitive, Reverend DANIEL BERRIGAN.

According to the newspaper article, "The Rev.
DANIEL BERRIGAN (S.J.) the fugitive priest, has surfaced again for a television interview". The article further quoted the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) as stating "BERRIGAN was interviewed last Friday in a motel room outside New York City. The interview will be broadcast tomorrow (June 4) at 6:00 P.M."

RICHARD GRAF, Director, TV News, NBC News Department, on June 4, 1970 revealed that BERRIGAN was interviewed by NBC reporters in a motel at Stamford, Connecticut, on May 29, 1970. The interview lasted 16 minutes.

NY 25-127189

GRAF also advised that an unknown party was go-between for BERRIGAN and NBC. This third party met NBC reporters at a specified site in Connecticut where reporters entered his vehicle. The third party then drove around for 45 minutes to insure he was not followed. The reporters were then driven to a motel where the reservation had been made by the third party in the name of an NBC reporter. Shortly thereafter BERRIGAN joined the group and was interviewed.

GRAF said that NBC at present will not furnish the names of the interviewing reporters, or the name and location of the motel.

At 6:00 P.M., June 4, 1970, the NBC news broadcast featured an interview with Reverend DANIEL BERRIGAN by EDWIN NEWMAN, NBC reporter. The interview commenced at 6:18 P.M. and lasted approximately seven minutes.

On June 5, 1970 the New Haven Office advised that the records of the Stamford Motor Inn, 100 Main Street, Stamford, Connecticut, contained a registration card number 3347, dated May 29, 1970, which revealed that rooms 146 and 147 were rented to an individual named MILLER, first name not indicated, of 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, New York. MILLER's firm was listed as NBC News, and his automobile as a Chevrolet, license number 1N670 or 1N677, state not given. The bill was paid by Master Charge Card number 170074007114 in the name of JOHN L. MILLER.

It was subsequently determined that New York license 1N670 was issued to the Transportation Vehicles, Incorporated, 1133 York Avenue, New York, New York, for a 1969 Chevrolet, green and black.

This vehicle, according to the records of the Transportation Vehicles, Incorporated was rented to the National Broadcasting Company, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, New York. It was rented on August 4, 1969 and the operator was listed as E.W. DEMMING, same address.

NY 25-127189

According to the records of the Chemical Bank, New York, New York, JOHN L. MILLER, 180 Riverside Drive, Apartment 10-C, New York, New York, has an account with that bank, and has been employed since January 1969 with NBC-TV News, 30 Rockefeller Plaza.

On the evening of 6/27/70, [redacted] A close associate of subject BERRIGAN, was located in the East Village section of N.Y. An around-the-clock surveillance placed on him and he subsequently returned to his residence [redacted] N.Y., where he spent the night.

On the afternoon of 6/28/70, [redacted] was surveilled from his residence to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, by Agents of the NYO, where he stopped at 8 p.m., at a building located between 412 and 420 Waverly. At 10 p.m., he departed this building in the company of an unknown woman, blond hair, approximately 23 years old. [redacted] drove in the direction of West Philadelphia where the surveillance was terminated due to the Bureau car becoming involved in an accident, which is being reported separately.

NY will continue to surveil [redacted] residence in NY and Bureau will be kept apprised of any pertinent developments.

For the teletype dated June 29, 1970, the N.Y. Division advised that the magazine section of the N.Y. Times for Sunday June 28, last, contained an article on Fugitive DANIEL BERRIGAN by PHILLIP NOBILE, editor of COMMON WEAL and Press Critic for the National Catholic Register, Catholic Publications, on three different interviews with BERRIGAN. Two were on May on consecutive nights somewhere between Baltimore and Washington and the third interview reportedly held the week of recent Kent State incident.

New York advised that the indices that office were negative on NOBILE and Bureau permission requested to interview NOBILE.

Bureau airtel dated 6/30/70, the Bureau authorized the N.Y. Division to interview NOBILE concerning the whereabouts of DANIEL BERRIGAN.

By communication dated July 8, 1970, the New York Division advised that an attempt was made to arrange an interview with NOBILE. At the time, NOBILE emphasized he would absolutely not give any information which would assist in locating BERRIGAN. In addition NOBILE stated that the FBI must be embarrassed in not having arrested an unarmed defenseless Priest prior to this time.

NOBILE advised that the reason he would not assist the FBI was that he believed the information he possessed was confidential and that a person such as BERRIGAN would not speak to him the future if he betrayed a trust.

In addition, NOBILE [redacted] d that NBC, N.Y. had taped an interview of BERRIGAN's with [redacted] reporter present and had shown this interview on one of the television News Broadcasts. He added NBC reporter EDWIN NEWMAN had refused to cooperate with the FBI concerning fugitive and in view of this, he could see no reason why he, NOBILE, should cooperate.

The New York office advised that they intended to discuss NOBILE's refusal to discuss this matter with U.S. Attorney [redacted] for the Southern District of N.Y. with a view toward subpoenaing NOBILE before a Federal Grand Jury.

By communication dated 6/29/70, the Albany Division [redacted] furnished the following information relative to [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

[redacted]

This communication sets out the activities of the [redacted] Albany requested investigation to [redacted]

On July 3, 1970, the Philadelphia Division telephonically contacted the Baltimore office stating that a source of the Philadelphia office had received a phone call from Sister ELIZABETH MC ALISTER, a Catholic Nun at about 1:30 p.m. on 6/30/70. The source advised that Sister MC ALISTER was en-route to Rochester, N.Y. to pick up one BRUCE NELSON and take NELSON for an interview with BERRIGAN,

Upon a review of the case files it was determined that Sister ELIZABETH MC ALISTER was listed as a correspondent of Phillip BERRIGAN at the Lewisburg Penitentiary, LEWISBURG, Pennsylvania. She is a Catholic Nun and belongs to the order identified as "R.S.H.M." and is reported to be a cousin to PHILLIP and DANIEL BERRIGAN. She resides at [redacted] New York City. b6 b7C

On 7/3/70, the New York Division advised that the residence at [redacted] New York City, is a convent for Catholic Nuns of Mary Mount Order. The New York Office further advised that the members of this convent are extremely sympathetic to DANIEL BERRIGAN.

By communication dated 7/4/70, the Buffalo Division furnished the following information relevant to the investigation conducted at Rochester, New York.

Data developed by Philadelphia informant July Three Seventy indicates Rev. BERRIGAN scheduled to rendezvous with BRUCE NELSON, correspondent of New York Times, for interview. NELSON is to meet BERRIGAN's cousin, ELIZABETH MC ALISTER, a Catholic Nun, at Monroe County Airport, Rochester, New York. Time unknown, apparently to take NELSON to unknown site to conduct interview.

Intensive investigation conducted July Three, Seventy by BUAGENTS at Monroe County Airport, Rochester, New York, including canvass of airlines and check of passenger manifests for incoming flights failed to locate subject BERRIGAN, ELIZABETH MC ALISTER, or BRUCE NELSON. Check with hotels and Motels, Rochester, New York area also failed to locate subject BERRIGAN, MC ALISTER or NELSON. Contact with logical informants and a known former associate of BERRIGAN Negative July Three Seventy.

By communication dated July 7, 1970, the New Haven Division pointed out that investigation conducted in the case shows that Professor RICHARD DRINNON, Bucknell University, had recently been somewhere in the state of Connecticut.

Investigation has disclosed that Rev. DANIEL BERRIGAN had indicated he had been staying with friends in the country. It is, however, conceivable that DRINNON may possibly be housing subject BERRIGAN.

By communication dated July 9, 1970, the Philadelphia Division advised that RICHARD DRINNON left a forwarding address as in care of Mandells, Fernando Drive, Westerly Rhode Island

A lead was set out for the Boston Division to determine whether subject BERRIGAN is in fact residing with DRINNON at the above address.

A review of the Baltimore case file disclosed that Rev. DANIEL BERRIGAN in January of 1968 went to Vietnam with one Doctor HOWARD ZINN, Professor, Boston University. ZINN is reported to be a known member of the Communist Party.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATIVE DIVISION

The New York Office advised that Philip Nobile, editor of "Commonweal," telephonically contacted the New York Office on 7/7/70, in response to attempt by Bureau Agents to arrange interview concerning Daniel Berrigan, a Bureau fugitive. Berrigan is one of two remaining fugitives being sought for failure to begin prison sentences after having been convicted of destruction of selective service records. An article by Nobile which appeared in the New York "Times" on 6/28/70, concerned interviews with Berrigan since Berrigan became a fugitive. Nobile, in refusing to furnish information to assist in locating Berrigan, indicated he would take the same position as that of Edwin Newman, NBC commentator who refused to cooperate with the Department of Justice.

The facts concerning this interview are being furnished to the Department by memorandum.

DATE: July 2, 1970

FROM : J. H. Gale

SUBJECT: REVEREND DANIEL BERRIGAN -
FUGITIVE, AND OTHERS
SELECTIVE SERVICE ACT;
DESTRUCTION OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

The New York Office has requested authority to utilize 12 Special Agents on three eight-hour shifts on 7/3/70, in connection with a physical surveillance of [redacted] a close associate of the above fugitive. The New York Office has been conducting a 24-hour surveillance of [redacted] since 6/19/70. New York also requested authority to include these 12 Agents under premium holiday pay.

Father Berrigan is one of the two remaining fugitives being sought as a result of failing to surrender to the U. S. Marshal on 4/9/70, to begin serving his jail sentence as a result of his being convicted for a violation of the Selective Service Act and Destruction of Government Property. Father Berrigan was a member of the group who called themselves the "Catonsville Nine" who, on 5/17/68, removed draft files from a local draft board in Catonsville, Maryland, and burned them. Following U. S. Supreme Court refusal to hear this case, Father Berrigan was to have surrendered himself on 4/9/70, to begin serving his jail sentence. It has been established that [redacted] is an extremely close associate of Father Berrigan and other individuals connected with antiwar groups who have associated with Father Berrigan in the past, and New York has attempted to locate Berrigan through surveillance of [redacted]

An informant of the New York Office advised on 7/1/70, that associates of [redacted] are planning to travel to New Haven and Hartford, Connecticut, to destroy draft board records. This group intends to meet at Boston, Massachusetts, on 7/3 or 4/70, and this action against these local boards could take place at that time. [redacted] may be involved in these actions. This matter is being taken up with the U. S. Attorney, New Haven. It is contemplated that these subjects will be arrested in the event they carry out their plans.

An article concerning Reverend Daniel Berrigan by Philip Nobile, listed as an editor for "Commonweal" magazine and also a writer for the "National Catholic Review," appeared in the magazine section of the "New York Times" on June 28, 1970. The article referred to interviews of Reverend Daniel Berrigan by the author and also set forth background information concerning Berrigan and his antiwar philosophy. A copy of the article is attached.

Reverend Daniel Berrigan was one of nine individuals who called themselves the "Catonsville Nine" who, on May 17, 1968, removed draft files from a local draft board in Catonsville, Maryland, and burned them. All were convicted of violating the Selective Service Act and the Destruction of Government Property Statute. Berrigan has been sought as a Federal fugitive since he failed to surrender himself to the U. S. Marshal on April 9, 1970, to begin serving his jail sentence following the refusal of the U. S. Supreme Court to hear the appeal in this case.

After several attempts were made by an FBI Agent of our New York Office to arrange for an interview with Philip Nobile to obtain information to assist in locating Berrigan, Philip Nobile telephonically contacted the New York Office of the FBI on July 7, 1970, and he stated that he would not furnish any information which would assist in locating Berrigan.

NOTE: The results of interview with Philip Nobile, editor for "Commonweal" on 7/7/70, are being made available to the Department in accordance with memo on teletype.

Nobile stated the reason he would not assist the FBI was that he believed the information he possessed was confidential and that in the future, people such as Berrigan would not talk to him if he betrayed their trust. He also added that Edwin Newman, the NBC commentator, had refused to cooperate with the Department of Justice concerning the taped interview of Berrigan which had appeared on NBC television. Mr. Nobile indicated that he saw no reason why he should cooperate in view of this stand by Mr. Newman. He was sarcastic and flippant during the conversation.

The foregoing information is being brought to your attention in the event that you may wish to consider undertaking prosecutive action in this matter.

In Bureau instructions in the indicated airtel Philadelphia was instructed to close its IFPI investigation consolidate same with the pending fugitive matter. This was done and close liaison is being maintained with the PCI in efforts to develop information as to possible whereabouts of the fugitives.

Philadelphia teletype 7/13/70 related to a new incident which was scheduled for 7/16/70 at the penitentiary in Lewisburg. This incident related to administrative segregation at USP minor infractions of prison regulations against PHILLIP PER [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] who through unknown means had smuggled out statements to members of their resistance organization concerning alleged harassment by USP personnel. The informant did not have any prior knowledge of these particular matters being smuggled and, therefore, while the incident was minor, did not directly relate to the fugitive investigation on DANIEL BERRIGAN.

In connection with the news article in the Washington Post of 7/14/70 concerning FBI investigation to locate Daniel Berrigan, mention was made that 20 to 30 FBI Agents appeared at a wedding at St. Augustine's Lutheran Church in Baltimore. The Director queried: "Did we have 20 Agents at the Church in Baltimore as a matter of illegals?"

The comment in the news article concerning the number of Agents present at the church is completely erroneous. At no time did the Baltimore office have 20 or 30 Agents present at the church as indicated. There were 10 Agents present at the church. Three were in the back of the church covering the rear exits, and the remaining Agents were in the basement conducting a search of the basement including closets and small rooms. At no time did these Agents observe the wedding.

On the basis of reliable information from two confidential sources that Daniel Berrigan was to attend the wedding of two of his associates which took place on 6/27/70 at the above-mentioned church, Baltimore Agents under the personal supervision of the SAC afforded appropriate coverage of the area in an effort to effect Berrigan's apprehension should he appear as indicated. There were only 10 Agents in the immediate area of the church which was located in a racially mixed, commercial area of lower East Baltimore. Three Agents were in the rear of the church during the wedding; however, no action of any kind was taken by these Agents to disrupt the wedding. The other Agents were in the basement of the church and at no time were they present in the upstairs portion of the church where the wedding was taking place. These Agents had conducted a search of the basement area including small rooms and closets.

The number of Agents was considered an absolute minimum to effect the apprehension of a Bureau fugitive under the circumstances at the time. The type of neighborhood, uncooperative wedding guests and hostile crowd were all taken into consideration in planning this situation, and it was felt that the number of Agents utilized would be the absolute minimum to successfully carry out, without incident, an arrest of a fugitive if he should appear at the scene.

This concerns an article which appeared in the Washington Post on 7/14/70 concerning FBI investigation to locate Daniel Berrigan and [REDACTED] who are presently being sought as fugitives for having failed to appear to commence prison sentences after having been convicted of the destruction of Selective Service records.

Information was received from a confidential source of the Philadelphia office that Daniel Berrigan might appear on [REDACTED] in Baltimore, Maryland. Bureau Agents under the direction of the SAC, Baltimore, covered this wedding and based upon information from an undercover Baltimore police officer that Berrigan was possibly in the church where the wedding was to take place, these Agents did conduct a search of the church to locate Berrigan, however he was not located in the church. This search of the church was conducted without incident, however the individuals attending the wedding are known to be hostile toward the FBI. It is also noted that this wedding was attended by individuals known to be associated with the "East Coast Conspiracy" who are presently being investigated for the destruction of Selective Service records, and a photographic surveillance was conducted for the purpose of further identifying these suspects.

This article also mentioned a search conducted of a convent in New York City on April 21-22, 1970. In this regard, a search was conducted by Agents of the New York Office in an attempt to locate Daniel Berrigan based on information he was in the convent, who has been known to be closely associated with Sister Elizabeth McAllister and other members of this convent. The Agents were invited into the convent to conduct a search by the Mother Superior of the convent. It is to be noted that in this regard, a summer retreat house located at Sea Girt, New Jersey, owned by this same convent, is known to have been used by Berrigan since a search of this property uncovered papers and trash indicated recent usage.

Re: Reverend Daniel Berrigan

It is noted that Philip Berrigan and [redacted] were apprehended at St. Gregory's Church, New York City, by Bureau Agents after repeated denials were made by the Pastor of this church and two other priests present at the time. Both Philip Berrigan and [redacted] were sought for having failed to appear on 4/9/70 to commence prison sentences for destruction of Selective Service records. In this regard, members of this same church were present at a rally being sponsored at this church on behalf of the Berrigans.

The Albany office advised that Sister Elizabeth McAllister, mentioned in this article, had visited Syracuse, New York, on 7/3/70, where she saw [redacted] and Mrs. Freda Berrigan, his mother, at which time she indicated that Daniel Berrigan was "all right." McAllister has been identified as delivering messages to Philip Berrigan at Lewisburg Penitentiary concerning antiwar activities.

FBI Searches N.Y. Convent

Catonsville 9 Priest Hunted

By Betty Medsger B-1

Washington Post Staff Writer

FBI agents raided a Baltimore wedding and a nuns' convent in New York searching for the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, a fugitive since April 9, when he and others of the "Catonsville Nine" were ordered to prison.

The nine Catholic clerics and laymen were convicted of destroying Selective Service records two years ago in Catonsville, Md.

Five of the nine decided not to turn themselves in to serve their prison sentences. Father Berrigan, 49, and Mary Moyland, a nurse, are still at large.

Father Berrigan's brother, the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 47, another of the defendants who refused to turn himself in, was arrested in a New York church April 21 and is now reported to be in solitary confinement in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

Friends of the two brothers claim that Philip Berrigan was placed in solitary for minor infractions of rules. But a Lewisburg warden said he and another Catonsville defendant, David Eberhardt, asked to be put in what he called "administrative segregation."

The search for Daniel Berrigan led FBI agents recently to the altar of a Lutheran Church in Baltimore during a wedding and under nuns' beds in a New York convent.

Two acquaintances of the brothers, Tony and Mary Scoblinsk, were surprised June 27 when 20 to 30 extra "guests" appeared at their wedding at St. Augustine's Lutheran Church in Baltimore, and stood with arms folded in the back of the sanctuary.

When asked to identify themselves, according to Mrs. Scoblinsk, one man said, "We're from the FBI."

"Who invited you?" Mrs. Scoblinsk said she asked.

"We invited ourselves," the man answered, according to Mrs. Scoblinsk.

A guest at the wedding, Sister Elizabeth McAllister, said she remembered one man saying to another over a walkie-talkie outside the church, "The place is covered now."

Mrs. Scoblinsk said another nun present, Sister Kathleen Contino, buzzed one of the agents during the eucharist and tried to offer him the kiss of peace, but he turned her down.

Under the Beds

In another search for Daniel Berrigan, agents reportedly looked under every nun's bed in the Provincial House of Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary at 137 W. 85th St., New York.

Sister Jogues Egan, 52, provincial (head) of the house at the time, said the agents, who identified themselves immediately, came on two consecutive days, April 21 and 22.

"I asked them if they had a warrant," said Sister Jogues, he was arrested. "We were need a warrant for a fugitive."

"They were very nice and apologetic," she said, "as they searched our house from cellar to roof. They went to every one of the six floors."

The sisters in the house had sent out fliers announcing a rally at St. Gregory's Church where Philip Berrigan was to speak the evening of the day he was arrested. "We were known sympathizers," said Sister Jogues.

Concerning Philip Berrigan's confinement at Lewisburg, Sister Elizabeth McAllister, a member of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary, said a letter from him indicated he had been placed in solitary confinement for two "minor" reasons: "Standing without authorization for 5 to 10 minutes in the following Sunday, July 1, 1970, and reporting [redacted] was purportedly the wrong lunch group, a mistake which was committed by 10 other prisoners, none of whom received any punishment."

W. H. Rauch, associate warden at Lewisburg, said today that both Philip Berrigan and Eberhardt are in solitary confinement because they asked to be placed there. "We just talked with Berrigan a few minutes ago," the official said, "and he says he won't come out."

"It's very unusual for a man to ask to go into segregation," said Rauch. "Sure beats me why he wants to be up there." He said about 10 or 12 of the 1,200 inmates at the penitentiary are in "administrative segregation."

In view of recent publicity afforded to Daniel Berrigan, it would appear that Berrigan is utilizing the news media to highlight his antiwar views and his opposition to Selective Service, and as long as Berrigan continues in fugitive status, he apparently intends to capitalize on obtaining press or television coverage. It will be incumbent upon each office to intensify your efforts to locate Berrigan.

To date, our investigation has failed to establish any particular area or locale where either Berrigan or [] are known to frequent. While it is recognized that this is not the ordinary fugitive investigation, since many of the individuals interviewed are sympathetic to the subjects and refuse to furnish any information, you must consider other avenues of investigation to locate them. It would appear that our coverage by informants or sources is inadequate in this regard. You should be particularly alert during interviews with the "New-Left," with the views of developing them as informants to assist in this investigation. It has been established that both these subjects are known to associate with the "New-Left."

Re: Reverend Daniel Berrigan

As an example of the successful development of informants, a Midwestern office successfully developed a former SDS member who was able to furnish information which recently resulted in the apprehension of eight subjects in the act of breaking in and destroying Selective Service records. Another example of capitalizing on weakness or disillusionment by individuals associated with the "New-Left" occurred in another Midwestern office. In this latter case, our investigation determined that a potential witness had been residing in a commune where the principal suspects, in a destruction of Selective Service records matter, resided. This individual was located after leaving the commune and subsequently furnished excellent information linking these subjects to this case and also furnished information in another important matter. You should also consider offering monetary inducement to your informants or sources in this case.

All offices receiving this communication should consider the above in order to effect the apprehension of these subjects as soon as possible.

NOTE: This communication is being directed to offices handling the principal investigation to locate Berrigan and [] pointing out that the development of an informant should be emphasized as having the best potential for locating these subjects.

Father THOMAS MC LAUGHLIN, Guardian, Saint Joseph's Monastery, 51 Oak Street, Winsted on July 16, 1970 advised he has never met nor has he any personal knowledge of the present whereabouts of either subjects. Father MC LAUGHLIN went on to state that he personally is opposed to Reverend BERRIGAN's "way of thinking" and in the event he comes into possession of any information regarding the whereabouts of either subject, he will advise this office.

Father MC LAUGHLIN went on to state that neither subject has ever been at this monastery to his knowledge. He added that there is no one else here bearing the first name THOMAS. However, he mentioned that Father TERRENCE VAUGHAN was formerly stationed to here for about a seven month period and left here to attend the Franciscan Order at Rye Beach, New Hampshire. He stated that he understood that Father VAUGHAN had, about a month ago, requested a one year absence from the order in order "to find himself". Father MC LAUGHLIN related that he has no personal knowledge of any association between subject BERRIGAN and VAUGHAN but that VAUGHAN "was a hippie type; interested in demonstrations" and could very well have been acquainted with BERRIGAN.

Father MC LAUGHLIN advised that VAUGHAN could be located through parent-acting Father O'ROURKE, Superior, Saint Francis College, Rye Beach, New Hampshire.

Re Baltimore airtels all SACS, 4/10 and 4/15/70;

Enclosed for Los Angeles are four photos of subject [REDACTED] and eight photos of subject Rev.
DANIEL BERRIGAN. The single photo of BERRIGAN is believed to have been taken during late spring, 1970.

For info of Los Angeles, subject BERRIGAN, a Jesuit priest, and subject [REDACTED] a registered nurse and Catholic laywoman, have been hidden and protected by peace groups and Catholic organizations in the East Coast since they became fugitives on 4/9/70. BERRIGAN has, through assistance from these groups, arranged for interviews with representatives of national news media while in a fugitive status. The Department of Justice is aware of this and are currently considering the possibility of prosecutive action against the news media representatives in view of their lack of cooperation.

BERRIGAN and [REDACTED] are both likely to be present in Los Angeles during the rehearsal period and/or the opening of the play "The Trial of the Catonsville

The last known public appearance by BERRIGAN was on 4/17/70 at Barton Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, at which time he appeared in disguise dressed in dark slacks, a beige high crew-neck sweater and wearing a motorcycle helmet with a shield. He has a relationship with Sister ELIZABETH MC ALISTER, a Catholic nun, residing in a convent located 137 Street, New York City. MC ALISTER is a suspect in the draft board break-ins occurring in the State of Delaware during 6/70.

The probability that subject BERRIGAN and [] may appear in Los Angeles for the play both disguised as "nuns" should not be overlooked by Los Angeles.

LEADSALBANY DIVISION

Will through established sources at Ithaca and Syracuse, New York, attempt to determine any information that would indicate that BERRIGAN and/or [] may travel to Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES DIVISIONAT LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

1. Will attempt to develop sources of information in a position to furnish background on [] Center Theater Group, Mark Taper Forum.

Feasibility of interview of [] prior to opening of the play is being left to the discretion of Los Angeles.

Conduct appropriate surveillances at rehearsals and opening of "The Trial of The Catonsville Nine," using necessary manpower to assure the apprehension of subjects BERRIGAN and/or [] should they appear.

Los Angeles should be on the alert for possible "sneak preview" or play for members of "new left group" in Los Angeles area.

3. Through informant coverage in "peace" and "new left" groups, attempt to determine if BERRIGAN and [] are expected to make an appearance.

4. Identify all members of the cast of this play and furnish Baltimore results of indices check.

NEW YORK DIVISION

AT NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK

Will through appropriate investigation or available sources of information attempt to determine if Sister ELIZABETH MC ALISTER, R.S.H.M., 137 W. 85th Street, New York City, contemplates attending the opening of this play on 8/6/70.

The Bureau and Baltimore should be advised immediately of the contemplated arrest of the two subjects this case.

Attached indicates subjects Berrigan and [redacted] are presently in administrative segregation at the U. S. Penitentiary, Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, and they smuggled out statements to members of their resistance organization alleging harassment by prison personnel. Subjects also called upon their members to write Congressmen and persons of influence to bring pressure on Bureau of Prisons. A press release dated 7/9/70 indicates demonstration to be held at prison in subjects behalf on 7/16/70. Information concerning proposed demonstration furnished to [redacted] on warden.
